

How to complain

So how do I complain to the PPO?

Follow these three easy steps:

1. Make sure you go through the whole immigration removal centre complaints process first.
2. Write a short note telling us what your complaint is about, and why you are still not happy.
3. Send copies of all your paperwork to us – including all the immigration removal centre complaint forms.

We have translated this in multiple languages. If you cannot find a leaflet in your language, please contact us.

Where to send your complaint

Where do I send all my paperwork?

Send copies of all your complaints paperwork to this address:

Prisons and Probation Ombudsman
Third Floor, 10 South Colonnade
Canary Wharf, London E14 4PU

Your letters to the Prisons and Probation Ombudsman are free of charge. Postage of your letters will be paid by the IRC.

Remember, don't send us original documents as we cannot return them.

How to complain to the Prisons and Probation Ombudsman (PPO)

Have you made a complaint and are you still not happy?

Maybe you need to talk to the Prisons and Probation Ombudsman.

Did you know?

- Every year, the PPO receives thousands of complaints, including those from detained individuals.
- In response to these complaints, we make recommendations to immigration removal centres and the outcomes of our investigations aim to make immigration detention a fairer, safer place for detainees across the country.

Lost an item of property?
Think you have been unfairly treated? Contact the PPO.

The truth about the PPO

- We don't work for the Home Office or Immigration Enforcement. The PPO is completely independent.
- Your letters to us will not be read by the IRC, and will not be used against you. You will not get in any trouble for sending us a complaint.
- We receive complaints from detained individuals every year. We can help you too.
- If we agree with you, you might get an apology; your loss covered; even a change in the way the centre works.
- We will let you know if we can investigate your complaint within 10 days of receiving it.

What can you complain about?

OK, so what can
I complain about?

You can complain to the PPO about all sorts of issues – from the way staff are treating you, your lost property or even about transport between prisons, detention centres or your own country.

We can't investigate:

- Complaints or decisions about immigration cases.
- Complaints about medical care.
- As a general rule, if it is more than 3 months since the final answer from the immigration removal centre about your original complaint.
- The complaint must be about something that happened to you, not someone else.
- If you are taking or have taken a legal case on the same issue.
