Reference: FOI 627 Freedom of Information request

Thank you for your emails, dated 24 February 2025 and 11 March 2025. Your request has been handled under the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

You asked us:

How many prisoners have died where no care plan was in place as found in Prisons and Probation Ombudsman (PPO) fatal incident investigations.

Our response:

To meet the 24-hour time limit stipulated by the Freedom of Information Act 2000, you agreed to refine your request. The period covered by this request is 1 February 2023 to 16 September 2023.

From 1 February 2023 onwards, we manually checked 268 fatal incident investigation cases on the PPO's case management system. Of these cases, there were 47 cases where a care plan was not in place at the time of death.

You have the right to appeal against our response if you think it is incorrect. Details can be found in the 'How to Appeal' section attached at the end of this letter.

The Prisons and Probation Ombudsman (PPO) carries out independent investigations into complaints and deaths in custody. The detailed role and responsibilities of the PPO are set out in our office's Terms of Reference. The PPO has three main duties:

- to investigate complaints made by prisoners, young people in detention (prisons and secure training centres), offenders under probation supervision and individuals detained under immigration powers (detained individuals)
- to investigate deaths of prisoners, young people in detention, approved premises' residents and detained individuals due to any cause, including any apparent suicides and natural causes
- to investigate deaths of recently released prisoners that occur within 14 days of release from prison (except homicide)

The purpose of these investigations is to understand what happened, to correct injustices and to identify learning for the organisations whose actions we oversee so that the PPO makes a significant contribution to safer, fairer custody and offender supervision.

We may use or share your data only to the necessary extent when conducting our independent investigations in the exercise of our official authority. We will share your data with third parties (e.g. the prison) in order to make sure the information is accurate; to prevent or detect failings; and to identify lessons learnt. We may sometimes need to share your data with third parties if required by law. We only keep your personal data for as long as it is needed, as set out in our data retention policy. If you need any further information about how your data is used, please contact us.

How to Appeal

Internal Review

If you are not satisfied with this response, you have the right to an internal review. The handling of your request will be looked at by someone who was not responsible for the original case, and they will make a decision as to whether we answered your request correctly.

If you would like to request a review, please write or send an email to the Prisons and Probation Ombudsman's office within two months of the date of this letter, at the following address:
